The screenshot displays the Google Code Playground interface. On the left, the 'Pick an API' panel lists various services, with 'jQuery' selected under the 'Libraries' section. The main 'Edit Code' area shows an HTML document with a title 'Google AJAX Search API Sample' and a script that loads jQuery and performs a search. The 'Output' panel at the bottom shows the results of the search: 'Google', 'Google Maps', 'Google Videos', and 'Google Images'. The code in the editor includes a license notice, a DOCTYPE declaration, a meta tag for content type, a title, and a script that uses the Google AJAX Search API to search for 'jQuery'.
